This is a difficult time

Don’t forget to:

- Seek financial advice
- Talk to your friends and family – don’t shut them out

Remember, help is available for you
There are resources to help you find pathways to employment

Help on whatsnext.jobs.gov.au

Department of Employment, Skills, Small and Family Business, June 2019
Explore careers on joboutlook.gov.au

Your guide to Australian careers

Job Outlook can help you make decisions about study and training, your first job, or the next step in your career.

Discover careers that match your work style.

Learn about job tasks, skills, prospects and pay.

Explore careers in demand where you live.

Find industries and jobs expected to grow.
Here’s an example of a career profile on joboutlook.gov.au

Purchasing and Supply Logistics Clerks

Overview

Purchasing and Supply Logistics Clerks prepare and process orders for goods and services, monitor stock levels and supply sources and maintain stock and inventory levels, record and coordinate the flow of materials between departments, prepare production schedules, and administer and coordinate storage and distribution operations within organisations.

A Certificate II or III, or at least 1 year of relevant experience, is usually needed to work in this job. Around one in four workers have finished high school. Even with a qualification, sometimes experience or on-the-job training is necessary.

Tasks

- requisitioning supplies from stock and sending orders to production departments and other firms
- confirming completion of orders and compliance with details specified, signing tally sheets and attaching to checked items
- receiving and checking purchase requests against inventory records and stock on hand
- examining orders and compiling data for production schedules
- checking inventories and preparing delivery schedules
- examining containers to ensure that they are filled, and recording quantities
- investigating and identifying supply sources and preparing and processing purchase orders
- providing price and other information about goods to prospective customers
- counting incoming stock and reconciling it with requisitions, and updating inventory and stock location records
- establishing and coordinating the operating procedures for receiving, handling, storing and shipping goods

Fast Facts

- $1,150 Weekly Pay
- 95,800 workers
- Employment Size
- Moderate Future Growth
- Lower skill Skill level rating
- Average unemployment Unemployment
- 81.8% Full-Time Full-Time Share
- 39.4 hours Average full-time
- 40 years Average age
- 42.2% female Gender Share
The way we work has changed

Jobs are changing, disappearing and emerging

- Increased flexibility is the new normal
- Increasing self-employment, contract work, project work and entrepreneurship
- Increasing job mobility and multiple career changes – the worker of the future could have 17 jobs in 5 careers
- Lifelong learning is essential and not optional

More than 1 million Australians now hold a secondary job

The Australian jobs market is doing well, but it is still competitive

Vacancies advertised on the internet or in a newspaper

There are 19 applicants per vacancy, on average...

...and only 3 applicants are interviewed

Source: Department of Employment, Skills, Small and Family Business, Survey of Employers’ Recruitment Experiences, 2018
But there are opportunities across many occupations...

→ There were 177,600 job vacancies on the internet in March 2019 (21% more than five years ago)

→ 89% of technician and trade occupations surveyed in 2018 are in national shortage

→ 46% of professional occupations surveyed in 2018 are in national shortage

Source: Department of Employment, Skills, Small and Family Business, Vacancy Report, trend data, March 2019 and skill shortage research 2018 (based on a set of around 70 consistently assessed occupations)
...and your skills may be in demand in some of the largest employing industries

Biggest employers
- Health Care
- Retail
- Construction

Don’t limit your job search to the industry you were employed in – your skills are transferrable across many industries and there may be new opportunities!

Other large employers
- Education and Training
- Manufacturing
- Accommodation and Food Services

Source: ABS, Labour Force, quarterly data, February 2019, 12-month average
So, what are employers looking for?

1. Qualifications and training
   Employers value education and study

2. Experience and skills
   Employers want job ready candidates

3. The right personal qualities
   Distinguishes the individual

Source: Department of Employment, Skills, Small and Family Business, Survey of Employers’ Recruitment Experiences, 2018
Your skills, experience and training will benefit other employers...

For example, employers think former auto workers have many transferrable skills:

- Experience with machines
- Hard working and committed
- Ability to follow plans
- Technical knowledge
- Quality control
- Teamwork

Source: Department of Employment, Skills, Small and Family Business, Survey of Employers’ Recruitment Experiences, 2017
...and you might already have skills and qualifications

You need to do a skills stocktake:

→ What skills have you developed over your career?
→ How do these fit with other jobs?

Go to the What’s Next website for help

Think about your qualifications

→ Are they still relevant in today’s jobs market?
→ Do you need to undertake more training?

But don’t do training for the sake of it. Get advice!
Employers also value work experience

Nearly three quarters of surveyed Australian employers said that experience is essential when hiring.

- It is evidence that you have the skills
- It demonstrates that you are reliable
- It shows that you are job ready

You need to explain how your experience is relevant to every job you apply for.

Source: Department of Employment, Skills, Small and Family Business, Survey of Employers’ Recruitment Experiences, 2018
Note: for all jobs, excluding the lowest skilled occupations (skill level 5)
You need to demonstrate your skills in your application.

Essential employability skills:
- Interpersonal & people skills
- Communication & teamwork skills
- Creativity & problem solving
- Adaptability & resilience
- Reliability & motivation
- Critical thinking
- Digital literacy

72% of employers place at least as much emphasis, if not more, on employability skills than they do on technical skills.

Source: Department of Employment, Skills, Small and Family Business, Survey of Employers’ Recruitment Experiences, 2010, all skill levels; Foundation for Young Australians, The New Basics, April 2016
The longer you’re out of work, the harder it is to find work...

...but remember, you have:

- Transferrable skills
- Recent work experience
- References from your employer
- Access to support
So, how do you look for a new job?

Proportion of vacancies, Australia, 2018

For example...

jobactive providers are there to help

And check out local Facebook jobs groups!

Consider approaching employers directly – 1 in 5 jobs aren’t advertised!

Note: Employers can select multiple methods of recruitment
Source: Department of Employment, Skills, Small and Family Business, Survey of Employers’ Recruitment Experiences, 2018
You need a good application and résumé

✓ Research the job and the business
✓ Change your application and résumé to fit every job
✓ Keep your résumé simple and short
✓ Check spelling and grammar
✓ Get advice and find someone to proofread your application
✓ Ring the contact for the job to show your interest

Source: Department of Employment, Skills, Small and Family Business, Survey of Employers’ Recruitment Experiences, 2018

Department of Employment, Skills, Small and Family Business, June 2019
The interview is important

- Prepare and practise beforehand with family or friends
- Be on time and dress appropriately
- Communicate well, be enthusiastic and friendly
- Ask questions about the job or business
- Demonstrate what you can bring to the job
- Emphasise the transferability of your skills and experience

Employers want to know who they will be working with.
The interview is your opportunity to make a good first impression.

Department of Employment, Skills, Small and Family Business, June 2019
Some final thoughts...
Don’t hold out for the perfect job!
You may need to compromise...

- A different industry or occupation
- A different location
- Contract or casual work
- Part-time or shift work

Remember:
- All jobs can open doors
- Apply for jobs that are relevant to you
- It takes time to settle in, try to stick it out
Many others have made the transition

Some thoughts from a former Holden worker

On losing his job

Jason said, “I think it is natural to feel a bit worried and have some self-doubt when there is something new on the horizon. Once I’d pulled my head out from under the covers and realised I had to get out and do something to find a job, the process probably took about six months.”

On his new job

“I love what I'm doing now, I'm really enjoying the customer service side of things. The pay is not the same, but we’ve made some adjustments, so it’s good.”

Source: Article by Simon Royal on ABC News Online, 20 October 2018, “Former Holden workers share their triumphs and struggles one year on”

Department of Employment, Skills, Small and Family Business, June 2019
You can control what happens now!

Use all the support and advice available

Think broadly and be prepared to compromise

You have to act quickly – the more you delay, the harder it will be Looking after yourself

The retrenchment process can be a difficult time and it is important that you look after yourself and your family.

If you want to talk to someone immediately, help is available:

• Your General Practitioner (GP) can provide support
• You can find a counsellor in your workplace or through your employer's employee assistance program.
• beyondblue provides a free support service and information resources on depression and anxiety for all age groups. Call 1300 22 46 36.
• Lifeline provides online, phone and face-to-face crisis support. You can call them on 13 11 14.
Tools to assist

joboutlook.gov.au

moneysmart.gov.au

whatsnext.jobs.gov.au

australianjobs.jobs.gov.au